Meeting dates.

ACRM SA Inc. Meetings are on the FOURTH TUESDAY of each month.

There is no meeting in December, thus November each year is a break-up meeting.

Aug's OCM is on 25th.

Sept's OCM will be the 22nd.

ACRM SA Inc. Meetings are held at 1st Gilberton Scout Hall, 3A Redmond Rd, Collinswood. SA.

PRESSIE'S PRATTLE; Phil 48:

As we slowly emerge from the old Covid norm, we can look forward to a second meeting (25th August), post Covid shut-down, which I guess will be the start of a new post-Covid norm, in whatever form it takes. I'm quietly optimistic that we have done enough to avert a second wave, thus avoiding a lock-down situation.

While, one of the side effects of Covid restrictions is maybe a little more than an inconvenience to most of us, bare a thought for the businesses that rely on our patronage just to exist, let alone turn a profit and keep thousands of Australians in employment.

Our first meeting once the scout hall re-opened for use again, went down well and only a few things were different. Cleanliness was the main push, which consisted of us disinfecting all chairs and other things used or touched while in use. John 232 & Chris 49 provided hand sanitiser and Chris also took a container of industrial strength wipes to clean all the spots that were touched. One notable change to gatherings nowadays is the social distancing and another covid-19 only practice is to sign a register of attendance, a government initiative that hopefully makes people accountable by knowing who else may have been around at the time if a person is later diagnosed positive. I would think by now everyone has the Covid-safe app on their mobile phone so the register is a second important way the authorities can warn others if they had been in close range of a Covid-19 carrier, thus enabling them to be tested earlier than waiting until, they too, showed symptoms. I would like to think that all our members have practiced good home isolation so when they attend the odd legitimate function, they do so with minimal chance of affecting others.

If you haven't got it you can't spread it. Which brings me to the next subject, Facemasks. Initially, it was quoted that my mask protects you and your mask, protects me. However it has since been expanded to wearing a facemask will reduce the chance of airborne contamination.

Now, I'm no expert so don't quote me on any of this, but I believe the virus doesn't last long in the air, however it is viable on a surface for a longer period of time, hence the warning about holding shopping trolleys and petrol pumps without sanitisation or at least using paper towel as a go-between and then discarding it.

Just so you are all wondering why I didn't start with my usual rant of where did that month go? Let me say that if ever a mag time snuck up on me it was this one because on Thursday, while outside at Dodgey's funeral, Dick 21 said, "See you Tuesday night," but my blank stare made him follow up with, "It is meeting night isn't it?" So yes, if ever a mag snuck up on me, it was this one. In my credit though, I had started it ages ago but that wasn't necessarily a good thing as you will soon learn. My old trusty laptop with that dinosaur XP on it was nubbled with some idiot problem that disabled the Keyboard and a re install only lasted a short time before it happened again so I was reduced to a lappy running Win 7 and a horrible version of Office 7 to write the mag with – OR the new one that is supposed to be the schmick new Windows 10, which has Open Office on it and although it's great for general word processing, it is not very Word compatible, at least not for formatting things. I loaded the mag into it and started writing articles, then duly saving it.

After the rude awakening that let me know I had 2 days to get the mag out, I did a clean install on the XP lap-top, reinstalled Office and loaded the September mag that I had saved in Open Office and was presented with a front page that was everywhere and not everything I'd written was in place either. Not only did I have to copy a cover from an earlier mag over, I still had to reconstruct half the mag from scratch. Basically, it was as though I hadn't made a start on the mag at all. One thing positive from it, I was forced to make time to reinstall XP and Office on "Old faithful." For the time being, at least, things have returned to satisfactory normal around here. Okay, with that said, I'd better get on with things.

TREASURE TROVE; Chris 49

Vale, Dodgy Joe; Chris 49:

Apart from any apparent generosity you'll read about in 48's article, one year Joe decided that the women at Main control needed to be recognized. He had 24 hour key rings made and engraved for us and was to present them at the 24 hour presentation night but chickened out so they were handed out by a 24-hour committee member at a later date. It is something that I treasure and so far, still looks too good to use. See picture, also note, it was during the long reign of the Truscott Hi-Fi 24 Hour Trial

Dodgy? Maybe – but always, a gentleman.

TO's TWEET;Bill 78:

Firstly, an apology from the editor. I was supposed to print this in the July mag but after locating Bill's jokes I forgot to go back for this article.

EMERGENCY MOBILE PHONE PROTOCOL.

There are basically three mobile phone carriers in South Australia, irrelevant on your provider, there comes a time when you are in a "Black Spot" for signal coverage. Hope is not lost, if you require to call the 000 emergency phone number, try the number of 112. This number is irrelevant of your provider, the phone seeks out the nearest and strongest signal. The call will be answered by a 000 phone call centre and take your call through to the appropriate operator.

Remember the number is 112.

During the COVID 19 outbreak, I have been giving the computer and YOU TUBE a bashing and have seen items from Germany of emergency vehicles at incidents and the phone number of 112. Maybe this is where the number originated?

I do know that in the last six months that after locating some accidents on the notorious Gorge Road, (a noted phone black spot) that I have been able to contact and have emergency services responded to the incidents.

RALLY ROUND_UP Trev 120

No one could have guessed that the Mallala (Gil Harris) Trial would be the last one for 2020, mind you the 24 hadn't been cancelled at that point so although things were looking pretty slim, the Gill Harris Trial went off like a dream, albeit, there was many more man-hours that went into pulling it off, than what was visibly obvious. From ACRM's point of view there wasn't much difference to any other trial but it shouldn't be forgotten that the Levis Club worked non-stop to comply with thousands of rules, the like of which have never been seen before. Whether said rules and the work required had any bearing on the 24-hour Committee's decision I'll never know but from what 48 told me, it very well may have been in the back of their minds during crunch moment.

Back to the Gill Harris Trial, I mentioned last month about the paperwork delays. A delay that saw us doing the final bits in the last week – but there was one advantage this year, two actually. The first being their map, which was so good we used it as is.

TUCK'S TALES; Graham: 141:

It seems that as we gradually start to see some relief from one set of restrictions due to Covid-19, another burst of infections hit the state and we go backwards.

I must admit that the state government and the federal government seem to be acting very responsibly, and it is a credit to the opposition in each case that they are supporting the actions of both groups.

However, poor old Victoria, seems to go from bad to worse.

The border closures have been partly successful. I say partially because there are still idiots who just don't care and keep sneaking in to our State at a risk to all.

Of course, the added inconvenience to ACRM has been the postponing and cancellation of events, although it is a pleasure to see that Mallala, and the 24-hour have now been put back on the calendar.

Unfortunately, before this article even went to print the last bit was already old news and is modified by the editor.

Please note as mentioned elsewhere, the 24, now known as the Hardi 24-Hr, has been postponed until the July weekend in 2021 and will, I believe, start from Kapunda.

Trial up-date; Phil 48:

Following references to the 24-Hour Trial's cancellation each month, including a new date of Sept 5th-6th, I can report that it has been cancelled for 2020. To say cancelled and offer no reason would be scandalous so, although I'm hardly the most qualified to talk about it, I'll cover what I know.

Firstly, it was not a decision made lightly. The 24-Hour Committee had to go through reams of paperwork pertaining to holding the trial during covid-19 times. We witnessed first hand at Mallala a small scale version of what a covid conditions trial would be like and there was nothing small-scale about that. In fact, the Gill Harris Trial, although trying, was a successful event and I'll try to cover that separately.

I'm guessing a Logistical nightmare somewhat approaches the intricacies of pulling off a trial during these times. We are told on TV what the current rules are but what isn't mentioned is the preparation which goes into insuring those rules are followed – and followed doesn't mean sort-of, it means exactly. We've all stood in line at the bank or in a department store and witnessed the lines and barriers with marks at intervals on the floor. Okay, so what's so hard about that? Nothing, from our point of view but consider if you will the person who has to mark out and make all those lines maintain distancing rules. Now put yourself on a spot somewhere at Main and think about how hard it would be to fit thousands of people into an area which is normally elbow-bumpingly close and somehow have everyone maintain the recommended distance apart.

How many of you are aware that guards have to be employed to make sure the rules are obeyed?

I'd pull the plug on an event for this next rule alone. Toilets have to be cleaned and disinfected regularly, maybe as often as every 15 to 20 minutes. (Expletive, Expletive).

The Twenty four in its 96 year history has only been cancelled 3 times and apart from during the Second World War (1940-46), in 1957-58 it was cancelled due to low entries, 17 I believe. Interestingly, the cancellation was in a time, not unlike now, the slump (recession) followed the Influenza pandemic that killed thousands of people around the world. It sounds all too familiar to our current pandemic and pending recession, except that the current pandemic has already killed more people and it's a long way from over.

That however, makes it sound a bit negative and it's not what I mean. We have to make sure that we see 100 years of the Twenty-four.

Over the years we have had many articles written after a 24-Hour Trial and each has been interesting because it was submitted by the monitor who went through it.

Over the next few years, leading up to the 100th year, I'd like to have some more articles sent in so we can run another 24-Hour mag in the lead up to it.

I'd like to kick this off with Joe and the bus, a story about a bloke who was a bit of a 24 hour legend, with the accent sadly on was, as I found out today, he died on the 14th August. He was known around the Bike Event World as Dodgey Joe and while dodgey he may have been, his forte was getting a group together who operated from his bus to run their control. Over the years we worked with Joe, we usually provided a radio operator to work with him but in 2013 he joined ACRM so he could do the radio at his control, thus freeing up an operator for other purposes. His callsign was ACRM 210. During this time, a few of his group also joined ACRM. Mark & Sharron back in 1998, followed by Paul 490 in 2010 and Dean 211 in 2015.

So, why the name Dodgey Joe? Well I guess one needs to analyse the meaning of Dodgey and draw your own conclusions. Usually dodgey is used to mean suspicious or unreliable and not to be trusted, however Joe was not really any of those, although if you could stretch suspicious out to include anything could happen, usually at someone else's expense, dodgey might be accurate. His controls were never standard or boring. From mundane to surprising, the riders could expect anything,. All in the name of fun and just something to make a control interesting. One year his control was done up as a Bus-stop, I guess that was mundane compared to a previous year when the riders pulled into his control and were greeted by some very scantily dressed ladies with their best assets on show to excite the boys. I don't recall anything more extreme than that. Unfortunately his bus broke down and his health limited his chance of fixing it so in latter years, his attendance was limited to his car and things just weren't the same. Anyone who remembers Joe and the Bus will also remember the obligatory coffee and Tim Tam you were forced to share with him. Although forced may be a bit inaccurate, I don't recall any arms being twisted to make one sit down for a heaping, helping of hospitality at the Dodgey Joe Diner.

In order to put the record straight, Joe was christened Dennis but evidently hated it and preferred to be called Joe. It was in his teens when he started a mechanical repair shop, which soon earned the name Dodgey Joes workshop. As I said draw your own conclusion.

I'm pleased to report that we did get favourable reports about Michelle's crossword; some commented that it was easier than usual and others liked the general feel of it. Sort of a younger perception on things, meaning the words were a whole new experience. Anyhow, you will find another of hers in this mag and with a little bit of luck more to come.

Another good reason for a new compiler is to perhaps stop a few more of my spelling mistakes, eg. 17 across was perspiration not persperation, which in turn would make 16 down wrong, unless Ligato has become a word recently.

Birthday greetings.

.Birthday greetings for September are extended to:

Jean 318 for the 3rd.
Elaine 43 for the 10th.
Karl 372 for the 12th.
Phil 48 for the 22nd.

We wish you all Many Happy returns of the day.

We used to run a Wanted to sell, buy or exchange article here in the past but without member's wanting to advertise, it's become a non-event.

However, if members have items for sale etc, contact the editor and it will be re-introduced immediately. Wanted to sell buy or exchange ads are free to members and can run until sold and/or you notify us to take it out. Adds can be placed by post to our Box number, by phone or SMS (text) to Phil 48, 0400390800 and email phil.48@bigpond.com

Reminder, Reminder, Reminder.

What the hell are you talking about fool? There was no remittance-form included. My blunder. I modified the form to suit this year's dates but didn't include it. For that I apologise and thank those who sent in subs regardless. At the risk of being a complete idiot, it'll be in this mag.

Member's Contributions To Our Delinquency

I had just started this section of the mag when Chris related an article she was reading and it suited the spot so here it is, the 48's-scrunched version anyway. A son took his mother out for a birthday meal and handed her a Birthday card which read,

Forget the past, you can't change it.

Forget the future, you can't predict it and as for the present,

Forget that too, I didn't get you one.

141 has sent in a few jokes for September

BLONDE ON THE SUN

A Russian, an American, and a Blonde were talking one day.

The Russian said, 'We were the first in space!'

The American said, 'We were the first on the moon!'

The Blonde said, 'So what? We're going to be the first on the sun!' The Russian and the American looked at each other bewildered and shook their heads.

'You can't land on the sun, you idiot!'

'You'll burn up!' said the Russian.

To which the Blonde replied, 'We're not stupid, you know. We'll time it to go at night!'

Editor: I noticed this used to be an Irish joke, it started off with, A Russian, an American and an Irishman were talking one day!!

What surprises me in this age of PC (political correctness) that rubbishing the Irish is now a sensitive subject but its okay to have open season on blondes.

Apart from the one Irish to Blonde joke, here are a couple more that just wouldn't work if pointed at the fairer sex so PC has just gone out the window.

Six retired Irishmen were playing poker in O'Leary's apartment when Paddy Murphy loses $500 on a single hand, clutches his chest, and drops dead at the table. Showing respect for their fallen brother, the other five continue playing standing up.

Michael O'Connor looks around and asks, 'Oh, me boys, someone got's to tell Paddy's wife. Who's it gonna be?'

They draw straws. Paul Gallagher picks the short one. They tell him to be discreet, be gentle, don't make a bad situation any worse.

'Discreet I'm the most discreet Irishmen you'll ever meet. Discretion be me middle name. Leave it to me.'

Gallagher goes over to Murphy's house and knocks on the door. Mrs. Murphy answers, and asks what he wants.

Gallagher declares, 'Your husband just lost $500, and is afraid to come home.'

'Tell him to drop dead!', says Murphy's wife..

'Awerite, I'll go tell him.' says Gallagher.

Into a Belfast pub comes Paddy Murphy, looking like he'd just been run over by a train. His arm is in a sling, his nose is broken, his face is cut, and bruised, and he's walking with a limp.

'What happened to you?' asks Sean, the bartender.

'Micheal O'Connor and me had a fight,' says Paddy

'That little scrawny runt O'Connor??' Says Sean, 'How could he do that to you?? He must have had something in his hand.'

'That he did,' says Paddy, 'a shovel is what he had, and a terrible beatin' he gave me wid it.'

'Well,' says Sean, 'you should have defended yourself ta same. Didn't you have something in your hand?'

"Aye, I did," said Paddy. "Mrs. O'Connor's breast! and a thing of beauty it was but of no bloody use in a fight."

Finally, the scourge of the marvellous, modern telephone.

What to do with those annoying foreigners who delight in wrecking a perfectly good day.

Next time you get that unwanted call, try a few of these responses.

1. " Mr. (Any name) is happy to speak to you. His billing rate is $500 per hour. If you'll give me your credit card number now, I'll book a time slot just for you."
2. "Oh, I thought you were my ride? Can you Uber a car for me?"
3. "I'm busy now, but I'm free around midnight. Can I have your home phone number so I can call you back?"
4. "I am planning to audition for The Voice next week. I've been practicing Sinatra's "My Way." Could you tell me what you think?"
5. "What are you wearing?"
6. "Do you want to know what I'm wearing?"
7. "Can you please call back? I am on the other line with my proctologist and he is trying to explain to me why I am a perfect ass."
8. "I am so glad you called. I just finished memorising the Gettysburg Address. Can I try it out on you?"

Use your imagination; the tricks you can pull are endless.

IN THE KITCHEN WITH CHRIS 49.

COFFEE AND WALNUT RING

Oil or melted butter, for greasing	1½ cups plain flour
¾ cup unsalted butter, softened	1 tblspn baking powder
3 eggs, beaten	generous ¾ cup light brown sugar
1 tsp coffee extract	2/3 cup chopped walnuts
4 tblspns maple syrup	Walnut halves, to decorate

Method: - Preheat oven to 325°F/160°C. Grease a 6¾ -cup tube cake pan, preferably nonstick.

Sift the flour and baking powder into a large bowl and add the butter, sugar, eggs and coffee extract. Beat well until the mixture is smooth, then stir in the chopped walnuts.

Spoon the mixture into the prepared pan and smooth the surface with a spatula. Bake in the preheated oven for 40-45 minutes, or until risen, firm, and golden brown.

Let cool in the pan for 10 minutes, then turn out carefully onto a wire rack. While the cake is still warm, spoon over half the maple syrup. To serve, top with walnut halves and drizzle with remaining maple syrup.

P.S. I call the tube pan a ring pan.

BANANA CAKE WITH CARAMEL FROSTING

Oil or melted butter, for greasing
1 tblspn baking powder
1/3 cup sour cream
3 eggs, beaten
2 ripe bananas, mashed

1½ cups plain flour
1/3 cup unsalted butter, softened
generous ¾ cup light brown sugar
1 tsp vanilla extract

Frosting

3 tblspns unsalted butter
2 tblspns sour cream

3 tblspns light brown sugar
¾ cup icing sugar

Method: - Preheat oven to 325°F/160°C. Grease and line an 8-inch/20cm square, deep cake pan.

Sift the flour and baking powder into a large bowl and add the butter, sour cream, brown sugar, eggs and vanilla extract. Beat well until the mixture is smooth. Stir in the bananas.

Spoon the mixture into the prepared pan and smooth the surface with a spatula.

Bake in the preheated oven for about 1 hour, or until risen and golden brown.

Let cool in the pan for 10 minutes, then turn out and finish cooling on a wire rack.

For the frosting, put the butter and brown sugar into a pan and simmer gently, stirring for about 2 minutes. Remove from the heat and beat in the sour cream and icing sugar. Let cool for 30-40 minutes, or until thick enough to hold its shape.

Spread the frosting over the top of the cake, swirling with a knife.

APPLESAUCE CAKE

Oil or melted butter, for greasing 1½ cups plain flour
1 tblspn corn flour 1 tblspn baking powder
¾ cup unsalted butter, softened 3 eggs, beaten
1 tsp vanilla extract lemon juice, for brushing
1 apple scant 1 cup applesauce or thick apple puree generous ¾ cup superfine sugar, plus extra for sprinkling

Method: - Preheat the oven to 350°F/180°C. Grease and line the bottoms of two 8-inch/20-cm layer cake pans.

Sift the flour, corn flour and baking powder into a large bowl and add the butter, sugar, eggs and vanilla extract. Beat well until the mixture is smooth. Stir in 1/3 cup of applesauce.

Divide the mixture between the prepared pans and smooth the surfaces with a spatula. Bake in the preheated oven for 25-30 minutes or until risen, firm and golden brown.

Let cool in the pans for 5 minutes, then turn out carefully and finish cooling on a wire rack. Use the remaining applesauce to sandwich the cakes together.

Core and thinly slice the apple and brush with lemon juice. Arrange the slices on top of the cake to decorate, then sprinkle with a little superfine sugar.
